

Spelling List 21

revived: brought back to life survival: the continuance of life vivid: making a strong, clear impression; full of life vitality: vigor; energy vivacious: lively; animated vitamin: an organic substance necessary for good health vital: essential; full of life and vigor encourage: to build up someone's confidence enact: to make into a law encircle: to form a circle around enforce: to see that laws are obeyed entangle: to get twisted up; to get involved endorse: to make legal by your signature; to support enable: to give power or ability to act entitle: to give a right to endow: to provide with some talent or quality; to give money enslave: to force into slavery prelude: the preliminary part before an event; introduce music prejudice: a judgment formed before the facts are known preamble: a beginning statement or paragraph prescribe: to order or direct as a remedy or treatment precedent: an action that may serve as an example or reason for a later action premature: happening too soon; before the proper time previous: occurring before in time order predecessor: a person who precedes another; an ancestor presume: to take for granted before proven accidentally: by chance; not on purpose leisurely: proceeding without hurry; in a relaxed manner deliberately: done on purpose habitually: regularly significantly: considerably; extensively comparatively: in relation to other similar things definitely: certainly; positively efficiently: quickly and accurately exclusively: only; not including any others