

Spelling List 7

graphic: written; vivid photography: "light writing" the making of likeness with cameras graphite: the carbon used in pencils seismograph: "earthquake writing"; a device for measuring and recording earthquakes telegram: "far writing"; a message sent by telegraph epigram: a short, witty saying depress: to discourage; to press down descend: to go down (from a higher place) deposited: paid, laid, or set down defunct: no longer living or existing depreciate: to go down in value descendant: one who comes down from a common ancestor degrade: to lower in standing or worth deprive: to withhold something from demote: to lower in rank deduct: to take away; subtract superb: of supreme excellence or beauty; splendid supersonic: of sounds beyond the limit of the human ear to hear superior: of higher rank; quality; or importance supernatural: relating to more than the natural universe; relating to God

Christianity: the religion based on Jesus Christ and the Bible neutrality: a nation's policy of not taking sides in a war severity; strictness; sternness prosperity: success; wealth immunity: the body's ability to resist an infection or disease conformity: the state of being in agreement; likeness absurdity: that which is ridiculous or silly locality: a place; a region; the surrounding area inequality: the lack of sameness priority: that which comes before in order of importance captivity: the state of being held against one's will; imprisonment clarity: the state of being clear purity: the state of being physically and morally clean sanity: Soundness of mind and judgement