

Spelling List 25

logical: reasonable prologue: lines introducing a play or a literary work eulogy: speech or writing in praise of a person or thing zoology: the study of animals psychology: the study of the mind ophthalmology: the study of the treatment and diseases of the eye theology: the study of God omnipotent: all-powerful omnipresent: present everywhere omniscient: all-knowing antisocial: opposed to being friendly antonym: a word opposite in meaning antidote: a medicine which works against poison antifreeze: a liquid which prevents freezing antiseptic: a substance which prevents infection anticlimax: a letdown; a decline from the impressive to the commonplace antibodies: substances produced by the body to prevent disease unfortunate: not lucky uncertain: not sure unbelievable: incredible; not to be believed unresolved: not figured out or cleared up unavoidable: not able to be prevented unthinkable: not to be thought of or considered uncanny: unfamiliar or strange in an eerie way unchaperoned: without adult supervision freighter: a boat which carries cargo receiver: one who gets or takes; the part of a device which gets a message daughter: a female descendant beginner: one who is just starting wrapper: a covering philosopher: one who loves wisdom; scholar; thinker counterfeiter: one who makes forgeries prisoner: one confined against his will deceiver: one who tricks or lies inquirer: one who asks for information